

COMMODORE PERRY UNKNOWN TO DATAS

Human Encyclopedia Was Also "Stumped" When Asked for Information About Alexander Hamilton.

"When was Commodore Perry born?" asked a young man in the audience at the New York Roof Garden last night. "Perry! Perry!" ruminated Datas, the human encyclopedia, reputed to be as broad and as full as an Arab of dates. "I never saw the name recorded, sir."

There was a good-humored laugh from the crowd; and again the human encyclopedia showed his fallibility, so far as dates American are concerned, when a bronzed young inquisitor from Panama asked when American property on the Isthmus was turned over and when Barro founded the city of Lima, Peru, for neither of these things did Datas know. But on the field of American sports he was distinctly more at home, for he told the winners of different American parties correctly every time, and when some one tried to catch him by inquiring the winner in 1899 replied amid laughter and enthusiasm that there was no race.

"Then upon request he gave a history of Bill Tweed, but he could not say when Alexander Hamilton was born nor when he died."

In English history he was naturally more at home, gave correctly all the dates in the lives of the seven Kings Edward, the date of the battles of Bannockburn, Waterloo and Sedan, and a complete life in dates of Napoleon I. and Sir Robert Peel.

He made the real hit, however, when in response to a derivative kind question of "Where was Moses when the thick went out?" he replied in his thick cockney tones "Down at the gas works miking a compli-ment," and retired amid laughter and applause.

Besides the human encyclopedia, last night's bill at the New York Roof Garden introduced Emma Carus, who quit Hammerstein because he wouldn't agree with her that she is too fat for lights.

We don't agree with her either. For the black knickers and position coat which adorned the buxom Emma in "Parafal," the "sweet young thing" of pale white and pink and blue which she wore last night, were, however, much applauded for several long songs.

Bedini and Arthur, comedy jugglers, created a sensation by throwing a shower of paper mache plates into the audience, causing several women, who thought them real, to yell at the top of their lungs. They do an interesting juggling act, following, Danport and Loretta supplied fun of the "rue" order, and Rosario Guerrero, assisted by Desaire, the beautiful Spanish dancer, gave her exquisite dancing pantomime of "The Rose and the Dagger," revealing the hit she made early in the season in "Red Feather."

WIFE DEMANDED HUSBAND'S $200

He Offered Her $10 and She Summoned Police—Chased by Crowd and Held on Charge of Disorderly Conduct.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward McLoughlin, of No. 136 Lafayette avenue, Brooklyn, furnished more excitement to the police and crowds of Brooklynites to-day through another sensational development in their matrimonial difficulties. Only a few weeks ago Mrs. McLoughlin started Lafayette avenue by standing on the porch of her home and blazing away with a revolver at the fleeing form of her husband. She informed the police afterward that she had shot merely in self-defense.

Mr. McLoughlin went home to-day. He had a roll of $200, which he exhibited by way of starting peace negotiations. His wife demanded the roll, rubber and all. Mr. McLoughlin, terrified with an offer of $10, immediately Mrs. McLoughlin rushed to the telephone and summoned the police.

The husband protested until Detective Gomerlinger, from Headquarters, appeared, running up the avenue. Then he dashed out the house and sprinted toward Fulton street. The detective and a straggling crowd that rapidly grew to the proportions of a mob gave chase.

Though short and stout, Mr. McLoughlin spread his legs with remarkable speed. Gomerlinger and the crowd, however, rapidly closed up on him and nabbed him at Flatbush avenue. He was taken to the Myrtle Avenue Court and held in $500 bail for further examination on Friday on a technical charge of disorderly conduct.

Mrs. Elizabeth Billsland Ordered that Two Remedies She Owned Be Sold for $500,000 Each and Proceeds Divided.

When Elizabeth Billsland drew her will twenty-one years ago she bequeathed her house, where she died in November, No. 11 Rock street, and its contents, to her sister, Mrs. Sarah Louise de St. Croix, who is now in Shanghai, China.

Then she directed that "the patent medicines known as 'The Metaphysical Discovery' and 'Poor Richard's Eye-water' be sold for $500,000 each, or as much as can be obtained for them, and half the sum realized be given to my sister, Louise, and one-quarter to my nephew, F. C. Jenkins—now living at Hamburg, Germany—one-eighth to Mrs. Julia L. Fabris—who is now in China—and the other eighth to be divided up among Mrs. J. G. Keagay, her three children and her brother, Robert."

Rev. R. A. Paterson, then of New Rochelle, was named as executor. The portioner was the lady left over $10,000 in cash and nearly $100,000 personal, while the patent medicine bequeathed are of "uncertain value."

The English Kundry of "Parsifal."

Mrs. Kirby Lunn will have the role of Kundry in the production of "Parsifal" in English, which will be made by Henry W. Savage. Mrs. Lunn came to this country last year under the direction of Maurice Grau and won admiration at the Metropolitan Opera House. Although primarily engaged for Brunhilde in "Siegfried," Mrs. Lunn assumed the roles of Ortrud in "Lohengrin," Azucena in "Trovatore,"

REVIEW PLEASES AT AERIAL GARDENS

New Number Brought to Many in the Audience Recollections of the Good Old Days of Opera Comique.

A large audience at the Aerial Gardens, on the roof of the New Amsterdam Theatre, last night, was taken back to the days of the good old opera comique by "The Offenbach Review," which now constitutes the third act of "A Little of Everything."

Klaw & Erlanger, in bringing this concert from the Moulin Rouge, have created it with a lavish hand, the scenes being prettily set and the costumes beautiful. Altogether it is a most pleasing addition to the entertainment.

Fay Templeton was seen and heard to the best advantage, opportunity in plenty being offered her for the style of songs in which she is at her best. She captivated the audience with her first song, "Chant on de la Brucanville," from "The Pretty Perfumer," sung charmingly "Say to Him" from "The Grand Duchess," and brought back many memories with "Lo, Here the Sublime!"

Peter F. Dalley was hugely funny as General Boom, whose course had stood the test of ordering a small bottle of wine for three souresters. The young women of the chorus looked prettily and sang very well indeed, and were decidedly chic and graceful.

CUT HER THROAT WITH SON'S RAZOR

Aged Woman, Demented by Grief at Death of Husband Three Weeks Ago, Ends Her Life Suddenly.

Mrs. Ann Gilson, sixty-seven years old, was found dead in bed in her home at No. 405 West Eighteenth street to-day with her throat cut. A razor lay on the bed beside her.

The old woman had lived in the little house on West Eighteenth street for nearly forty years with her husband, James. Three weeks ago he died. She had hardly spoken anything since her husband's death.

During the thunderstorm last night the woman went into her son's room and took his razor from the bureau. She said she was afraid it would attract the lightning.

When Mrs. Gilson did not get up at the usual time to-day her son went into the room and found that she had ended her life with the razor.

ROBBED AND SHOT HIM.

John Troy Assaulted and Then Relieved of His Valuables.

The latest infest the wilderness of tough and brick made by the Pennsylvania railroad Company at Thirty-second street and Seventh avenue is John Troy, a bartender living at No. 29 Sixth street. A gang in which was Kila Wagner, an ex-convict, attempted to drag Troy into the inclosure in order to rob him. Troy showed fight and was shot in the groin.

Wagner was shot by the police to have done the shooting. Troy lost a gold watch and $20 in money. He was removed to the New York Hospital. Wagner is being sought by the police.

The famous Weber & Fields Music Hall on Broadway is to have a future as well as a past in the burlesque line. Joseph Weber, who holds possession of the hall, having entered into partnership with Florence Ziegfeld, jr., for the purpose of conducting the house along the lines upon which it grew popular.

Anna Held, Ziegfeld's wife, will be at the head of the stock company with Mr. Weber. The theatre will be known as Weber's Broadway Music Hall and the company will be known as Weber & Ziegfeld's Stock Company.

Charles Bigelow, who had been engaged as leading man for Anna Held next season, will probably be a leading member of the company. Edgar Smith, who supplied the librettos for the Weber & Fields company, will act in a like capacity for the Weber & Ziegfeld organization.

Mr. Weber has announced that the house will open in September.

"Use Hyomei at Our Risk."

Hegeman & Co., 200 Broadway, Will Pay for HYOMEI Treatment if it Fails to Cure Catarrh.

The fact that Hyomei is so convenient and complete and that it cures by merely breathing and not by drugging the stomach, no doubt has had considerable influence in creating confidence in the treatment. When Hyomei is used every particle of air that enters the head and throat and goes to the lungs is charged with healing balsams that kill the germs of catarrh and soothe and heal the irritated mucous membrane.

Hegeman & Co. urge all who are subject to catarrh or catarrhal colds to get a Hyomei outfit from them and use it at their risk. No matter how sceptical you may be, you cannot dispute the fairness of this offer. Use Hyomei for a month. If, at the end of thirty days you can say to Hegeman & Co., "It did not help," they will refund your money without question or argument.

HE WANTS THE 'PHONES.

O'Reilly Asks that Police Be Forced to Return Seized Property.

Lawyer Dan O'Reilly, counsel for the New York and New Jersey Distributing and Circulating Company, in the Park Row Building, which concern was raided by the police month ago as a poolroom exchange, to-day applied to Magistrate Breen, in the Centre Street Court, for an order compelling the police to return twenty telephones seized.

Magistrate Breen said he did not care to sign the order on a verbal statement and suggested an affidavit be filed.

"I have asked officer Commissioner McAdoo to return the phones," Mr. O'Reilly stated, "and if you will grant a summons for him I will make the complaint."

"Put that in your affidavit," he said, "and the magistrate will sign it. He's a public official, you know."

Mr. O'Reilly said he would file the affidavit later.

Lambert Brothers MANUFACTURING JEWELERS

The world is full of unbelievers, and some of them say they do not see how we can possibly sell the goods we offer at the prices we ask and still make a profit. If we took the well-meaning advice so often given us, and moved into a more expensive neighborhood, and if in all ways we followed in the footsteps of other reliable jewelry houses, we should so increase the cost of doing business that the name of LAMBERT could no longer represent a union of superb quality and very modest prices.

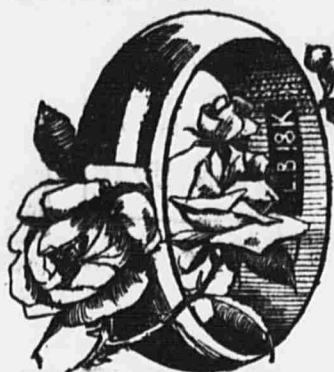

In our present situation our expenses are moderate, although we occupy an entire building. Our store is as accessible as any. Whether you live uptown, downtown, across town or out of town you can reach us quickly.

In our factory—one of the busiest places in New York all the year round—we make a large part of what we sell. Watches and some other things we buy of manufacturers for spot cash. These terms make dealings with us highly advantageous to the customer. By making our profit at the buying and manufacturing end of the business, we gain friends at the selling end, and we keep them, year after year.

All the LAMBERT diamonds are chosen in Amsterdam—the greatest diamond mart in the world—by a member of our firm. They are imported direct. Never do we deal with middlemen.

Long years ago we decided upon a policy that has been so amply justified by its results that we see no reason to change it. There are other reliable jewelry houses in town. We do not pretend to be the only one, but others, with oppressive rents and other heavy expenses to meet, cannot compete with us in the matter of price. That is one reason why the LAMBERT store is thronged while other stores are waiting, more or less patiently, for trade.

This Is the Bridal Month.

While the June breezes play among the roses the June bridal processions move merrily along. There are beautiful and costly gifts for the bride which she values for the good wishes that go with them, but the most precious gift of all is the seamless ring of pure gold, the emblem of happiness without end. Nothing in our store is less pretentious than our seamless wedding rings; nothing is worthier of our reputation. The best workmen we can find have been making them in our factory since 1877. Every ring is guaranteed. The LAMBERT rings are used at the most stately as well as at the simplest weddings. In this month of weddings we are selling scores of them. We make no charge for engraving.

It is best to order them early, because engraving takes time, and delay in delivery annoys us quite as much as it annoys the customer. Later in the month, when graduation orders come with a rush, we can only promise to do our best in the way of promptness.

A Regal Gift.

This Ring is a pretty graduation gift. A solid 14-karat gold mounting, made in our factory, holds a fine stone bought by a member of our firm in Amsterdam. Price, $35

Rose Signet Rings.

Each month has its flower represented on our Birthday Signet Rings of solid gold. The June rose is chased on the shank of this ring. A pretty and appropriate gift for the graduate who was born in June. Price, $7.50.

Brilliance in Class Pins.

Here are a few Class Pins, from the best and largest assortment in the city. It is no longer necessary to "shop around" for exquisite work in this line. Students know they can get what they want at the LAMBERT Store, and that is why we are getting orders by mail from high schools, academies and colleges all over the country. We prefer to receive orders early, so we can guarantee delivery in time. A little later in the month we shall be so rushed that we can only promise to do our best. We produce all desired colors as accurately as the most improved processes in enamelling will allow.
